NSA's Player's Code of Conduct

I will have fun!

I'll Play the game fair. Playing fair requires courage and character. It is also much more satisfying than achieving my goals unfairly or dishonestly.

Play to win. I'll try my best until the final whistle, but also remember that it is just a game. Winning is not everything.

Observe the Laws of the Game at all times.

Make my best effort attend all games and practices. If I can not attend a game or practice, I'll call my coach with as much advance notice as possible.

Develop respect for the ability of opponents, your teammates, and for the judgment of referees and opposing coaches.

I'll accept defeat with dignity. Nobody wins all the time.

Congratulate my opponents with good grace.

I'll always be prepared with the proper equipment by bring: correct jersey, an inflated soccer ball, shin guards and lots of water. As a responsible player this is my responsibility not Mom's or my Dad's.

Promote the interests of soccer: watch games on TV and live, have at least one favorite team (besides mine own) and follow at least six players who have practice to greatness.
